Two Successful Spring Novels

HILMA

BY

WILLIAM TILLINGHAST
ELDRIDGE

Illustrations by MARTIN JUSTICE
Cover by HARRISON FISHER

"The story is a most exciting one and moves with breathless rapidity. It is a tale of war, of intrigue, and yet running through it like a silver thread, is the pure love story of two loyal hearts."

—The Milwaukee Sentinel.

"A novel thrilling with romance and adventure, and well calculated to bring refreshing entertainment to the reader who is thoroughly tired of the average commonplace novel of the day. It tells the story of vigorous life, of delightful romantic adventure."

WHY THEY LEAD

THE PORT OF MISSING MEN

By
MEREDITH
NICHOLSON

"The clash of wits is as bright as that of knives."—New York Nation. "A very readable romance."—New York Sun. "Breezily and delightfully impossible."—New York Herald. "Entraps the wariest old reader."—New York Globe. "The best, most stirring and graceful romance for many a day."—Washington Herald.

HALF A ROGUE

By
HAROLD MacGRATH

"MacGrath's art is perfect. His situations are wonderfully well drawn and his plot fresh as a breath of spring."—Brooklyn Citizen. "'Half a Rogue' has all the charm of its author's previous work in the romantic vein."—New York World. "Full of life, teeming with action, unflagging in interest, 'Half a Rogue' is wholly worth while." Nashville American.

AUNT JANE OF KENTUCKY

By ELIZA CALVERT HALL

MARGARET E. SANGSTER says: "Nothing more charming than this delightful book has appeared in recent fiction."

The New York Times says: "Where so many have made caricatures of old-time country folk, Eliza Calvert Hall has caught at once the real charm, the real spirit, the real people, and the real joy of living which was theirs."

Fully Illustrated, 283 pages. Cloth, $1.50

Second Edition Now Selling

PHANTOM WIRES

By ARTHUR STRINGER

Even the Nation praises this new novel by the author of "The Wire Tapers," as follows:

"The plot is constructed with skill and worked out with more than ordinary ability. . . . Mr. Stringer has rare descriptive powers, and can create an atmosphere or a background with artistic skill."

The New York Press is more to the point:

"It is, by all odds, the most exciting and interesting criminal story we have read in years."

Fully Illustrated. Cloth, $1.50

ACKROYD OF THE FACULTY

By ANNA CHAPIN RAY

"As a study in temperament, an analysis of character, as a 'novel of manners,' it must be said that in 'Ackroyd of the Faculty,' Miss Ray has scored a decided success. It is perhaps the best of her novels thus far."—Brooklyn Eagle.

12mo. Cloth, $1.50

UNDER THE HARROW

NEW SCRIBNER BOOKS

Military Memoirs of a Confederate

A Critical Narrative

(Ready Now)

By GENERAL E. P. ALEXANDER

With portrait frontispiece and sketch maps by the author. $4.00 net
Postage 21 cents extra

General Alexander was Chief of Ordnance in the Army of Northern Virginia, and afterward General of Artillery and Chief of Artillery in Longstreet's corps, and is one of the most distinguished of the surviving Confederate officers. In addition he was a West Point graduate and an engineer officer of the "Old Army" before the war, and has been all his life known to military men as a man of strong scientific bent and among the scholars of his profession. These "Military Memoirs—A Critical Narrative," are devoted primarily to criticism of the strategy of the war on both sides. But General Alexander's keen and alert personality; his delightful personal reminiscences and anecdotes, with the rare literary quality of the style, make it for the general reader one of the most absorbing and thrilling, as it is one of the most valuable, of all books on the Civil War.

(Ready in May)

Social and Religious Ideals

By Rev. ARTEMAS JEAN HAYNES, M.A.

Minister of the United Church on the Green, New Haven, Conn.

$1.00 net. Postage extra

Helpful, stimulating and suggestive, "essays in little," which touch on modern life and conduct at many vital points, and will strike responsive chords in the hearts of many readers. The book is in the same class with Dr. van Dyke's "Friendly Year" and the late Dr. Babcock's "Thoughts for Every-Day Living."

(Ready in May)

The British City: The Beginning of Democracy

By FREDERIC C. HOWE

Author of THE CITY: THE HOPE OF DEMOCRACY

$1.50 net. Postage extra

This book is the result of original researches carried on in the last year or two in England by Mr. Howe who is an expert on the subject of municipal government and taxation. It is an able, illuminating and exceedingly interesting work.

The

(Ready in May)

Memoirs of the Comtesse De Boigne

I. 1781-1814

Edited by CHARLES NICOLLAUD

$2.50 net. Postage extra

One of the most important volumes of memoirs on the period from 1781-1814 ever published. The Comtesse De Boigne was an intimate friend of Madame Recamier, Madame de Stael, Talleyrand, Chateaubriand, Benjamin Constant and many of the famous people of that time, and her account of court life, of life among the Émigrés and at Napoleon's court, is witty, vivid and delightful reading.

NEW SCRIBNER BOOKS

The Militants

(Ready in May)

Stories of Some Parsons, Soldiers and Other Fighters in the World.

By MARY RAYMOND SHIPMAN ANDREWS

Illustrated. $1.50

New stories by the author of "The Perfect Tribute." Tales of deep feeling and fine achievement, love stories and stories of struggle and principle, written with the power, sincerity and understanding that have so distinguished Mrs. Andrews's stories.

Short Cruises

By W. W. JACOBS

Illustrated by WILL OWEN. $1.50

Twelve new stories by the author of "Odd Craft" and "Captains All"

He has perfected a certain kind of short story, the subject and matter of which he varies with the infinite variety of real life. The dry fun, the original and intensely human characters, the inimitable art of his condensed and restrained style, those delicious bits of humor tucked away in the most apparently sober-minded corners, give him a quality entirely his own. The stories in the new book are certainly among the best that he has ever written.

The Pickwick Ladle

And Other Collector's Stories

By WINFIELD SCOTT MOODY

Illustrated. $1.50

These are tales of two enthusiastic collectors, Peter Wyckoff and his wife, who in a series of most entertaining and delightful adventures acquire a number of rare and precious things, sometimes to lose them again. They pursue their taste with true enthusiasm, but in the course of their pursuit they are sometimes diverted to other objects, and throughout the tales it is the charming personalities of Wyckoff and his wife that hold us, as much as the interest of the chase.

READY IN JUNE

By the author of ELIZABETH AND HER GERMAN GARDEN

Fraulein Schmidt and Mr. Anstruther

$1.50

A charming love story against the background of a little German town, full of sentiment and quiet humor, and with a most delightful heroine.

By RICHARD HARDING DAVIS

The Adventures of the Scarlet Car

Illustrated by FREDERIC DORR STEELE. $1.50

A thrilling and exciting story of the adventures that befell the Scarlet Car and the girl and the men in it during various journeys. Written with the dash and fun that make Mr. Davis one of the best of our story tellers.

"A NOVEL OF REMARKABLE POWER"

CONFLICT

By CONSTANCE SMEDLEY

Has a woman any business to be in business?

Does she sacrifice more or less than she gains?

Does "breadth" compensate her nature for its losses?

This is first, last and all the time a fine story—but it makes you think, too.

NOTES IN SEASON.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY publish this week "Four Seasons in the Garden," an illustrated and timely book for the amateur gardener by Eben E. Rexford; also, the "Primer of Skat," by A. Elizabeth Wager-Smith, designed to teach the alphabet of this popular card game to beginners already described by us.

D. APPLETON & COMPANY have just published as the latest addition to their series of supplementary readers "The Cave Boy," by Margaret A. McIntyre, which deals with the Stone Age in simple language adapted to elementary grades, and contains a short list of good reference books and suggestions to the teacher, showing how the lessons may be supplemented by specimens, modelling and outdoor excursions.

LITTLE, BROWN & COMPANY will bring out in May "By Right Divine," a romance of love and politics, by William Sage, whose book, "The District Attorney," was published last year. The new story is of the struggle for political supremacy between a United States senator and a governor, complicated by the love of the senator's daughter for both. They have postponed until May 4 the publication of two novels announced for April—John H. Whitson's "The Castle of Doubt" and "Jennifer," by Lucy M. Thruston.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY bring out this week "My Commencement," a dainty gift book, to be had in cloth, limp leather or full red leather, for the girl graduate of school or college, with room for record of classmates, teachers, newspaper clippings, photographs and the like. They announce "Efficient Democracy," by Dr. W. H. Allen, executive head of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor. The titles of two of the chapters, "Efficiency in Government" and "Bureau of Municipal Statistics," are especially apropos in view of the proposed investigation of the city and state departments by Mayor McClellan and Governor Hughes.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY have ready this week Professor Edwin A. Barber's monograph on "Pottery," the first to appear of their Primers of Art, each of which, complete in itself, is to treat of some branch of industrial art. The author is curator of the Pennsylvania Museum School of Industrial Art, and his book includes the Majolica of Italy, Spain and Mexico, the Delft wares of Holland and England, and the Stanniferous Faience of France, Germany and other European countries. They have also just ready Commander Robert E. Peary's "Nearest the Pole," the personal narrative of the commander of the expedition which fell short of the polar goal by a scant two hundred miles.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & COMPANY have just published "The World's Warrant," by Norah Davis, author of "The Northerner," the new book being the love story of an Alabama girl of to-day; "The Young in Heart," by Arthur Stanwood Pier, a collection of essays on outdoor sport and man's recreations, such as "Lawn Tennis," "The Quiet Man," "In Swimming" and "Brawn and Character," by the author of "The Ancient Grudge;" Olive Thorne Miller's new book, "What Happened to Barbara," the story of an American girl through the three years from fourteen to seventeen, at home and in school, in varied experiences—camping out, going through a western blizzard and helping to run a newspaper; also, "The Arthur of the English Poets," by Howard Maynadier, instructor in English at Harvard, tracing the Arthurian Legend from its beginnings in the past, through its mediæval developments, to its use by modern English writers, from Layamon's "Brut" to Tennyson's "Idylls of the King."

Brooke, Emma. Sir Elyot of the woods: a novel. N. Y., Duffield & Co., 1907. c. 9-435 p. front. D. cl., †$1.50.
Secondary only to his determination to clear his ancestral home of debt is Sir Elyot Ingall's intense love for the "Dower woods," once a part of the estate of Ingaltan, which he would sacrifice his life to save from commercial destruction. A missing will, a young woman without a conscience, poor and loving money, and engaged to Sir Elyot, bring about the destruction of the woods, which, it turns out, had been left to Sir Elyot's care, the real will finally turning up. The author wrote "The superfluous woman" in 1894, later "The engrafted rose" and other novels.

Burbank, Luther. The training of the human plant. N. Y., Century Co., 1907. c. '06, '07. 99 p. por. D. cl., 60 c. net.

Many years of investigation into the plant life of the world has impressed Mr. Burbank with the similarity between the organization and development of plant and human life. He discusses "the training of the human plant" under the following headings: The mingling of races; The teachings of nature; Differentiation in training; Sunshine, good air and nourishing food; Dangers; Marriage of the physically unfit; Heredity—Predestination—Training; Growth; Environment the architect of heredity; Character; Fundamental principles. Discusses child training.

5+88+2 p. il. pls. diagrs., tables, O. (Dept. of the Interior, U. S. Geological Survey bulletin, Geography.) pap., 15 c.

Object of the manual is "a description of the topographic work, instruments, and methods of the U. S. Geological Survey, primarily for the information of the men engaged in this work." Not an elementary nor a general description. Particular emphasis on map making. First published in 1893 as monograph 22. Index.

Garland, Hamlin. The long trail: a story of the Northwest wilderness. N. Y., Harper, 1907. c. 263 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Jack Henderson, a boy living in a small Minnesota town, is seized with the desire to go to the Klondike in search of gold. This is in 1898, when the first discoveries were made there of the much coveted metal. He has a little money and starts in spite of his mother's opposition. This is the story of his adventures over the old Telegraph Trail and his successful "find;" he has many perilous episodes, endures cold and heat, hunger and thirst, and the rivalry of fierce men. The varied life of the famous Yukon goldfields is effectively portrayed by a writer who has travelled through the country and knows it well.

Statement of the causes and rate of recession, particularly of the Horseshoe Falls, during the period from 1842 to 1905. The rate is found to average between four and five feet per year. Calculations are made from surveys of the crest line, and from camera-lucida sketches made in 1827. The investigation is of interest to geologists in connection with the age of the river and its activity in gorge making. Includes a list of the publications of the U. S. Geological Survey to December, 1906.

Górky, Maxim, [pseud. for Alexéi Maximovitch Pyeschköff.] Mother; with eight il. by Sigmund de Ivanowski. N. Y., Appleton, 1907. c. '06, '07. 5+499 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A story of Russia as it is to-day, depicting the great movements of the last few years that have kept the attention of the world fixed upon the empire. The mother is the great figure of the story, around whom the entire plot revolves. She is the wife of a factory laborer in a manufacturing town near St. Petersburg. The gross and brutal life of the household is realistically described, in which her husband leads an animal life of drunkenness and poverty. The son would follow in his father's footsteps but for the beautiful influence of the mother. The young man becomes interested in the movement for the liberation of his people from industrial and governmental slavery, and his home becomes the place of study where gather a little group of student socialists, drawn from various walks of life. The house is searched, there are arrests, imprisonments, etc.

Mr. Hornblow is author of "The lion and the mouse," novelized from Charles Klein's play. Briefly outlined, this story is as follows: Roy Marshall a college boy, falls in love with his sister's governess, Eunice. His father had planned to marry him to an heiress in order to prop up the crumbling fortunes of the house, and to save the situation Eunice goes away, but Roy follows her and they are married. After various experiences at gaining a living he goes to Pittsburg and becomes a steel maker, gradually rising to the vice-presidency of the Empire Steel Co. He becomes very wealthy, wastes money in dissipation, is untrue to his wife, who obtains a divorce from him, and goes the downward path rapidly.

Howells, W.; Dean. Through the eye of the needle: a romance; with an introduction. N. Y., Harper, 1907. c. 13+233 p. O. cl., $1.50.

Aristides Homos, an Emissary of the Altrurian Commonwealth, visited the United States in 1893 and made a study of our life and methods of living, embodying his impressions of our civilization in letters to a friend in Altruria. With these telling criticisms of our crudities is the story of his love for an American lady, who becomes his wife and returns with him to Altruria. These letters are part one of the romance. The second part is made up of letters from his wife to friends in America telling of the ideal and free from care life of Altruria. The first part, now slightly changed, was published in 1894, by the Harpers, under the title, "A traveller from Altruria." Mr. Howells, in an introduction, points out the improvements in the present New York life over that of 1893.

Johann Kaspar Schmidt was born at Bayreuth in 1806 and died at Berlin in 1856. When he went to the Berlin University his fellow students bestowed upon him the nickname of "Max Stirner," because of his prodigiously high forehead. This name clung to him and was signed to his extraordinary book, "Der einzige und sein eigenthum," published in 1845. The book was almost forgotten until 1898, when John Henry Mackay published in German his painstaking account of Stirner's life and work. This is the first English translation of Stirner's book wherein is set forth the doctrine of Individualism, the opposite of Socialism, afterward so brilliantly represented by Ibsen and Nietzsche.

Author is professor of political science, University of Washington. This book discusses the influence which the doctrine of checks and balances has had upon the political development of the United States. It traces the growth of this theory in the effort to limit the power of ruling classes, its practical rejection by those who set up the Federal and the State governments of the Revolutionary period, and its subsequent embodiment in the Constitution. Special attention is given to the more important checks intended as a substitute for the conservative influence of king and aristocracy, such as the difficulty of amending, the extraordinary powers and tenure of the judiciary, and the subordination of the House of Representatives.

Jerry is a clever young American who finds himself stranded in a little village in northern Italy while awaiting the arrival of his aunt and sister. He discovers a charming American girl living with an invalid father and aunt in a nearby village, and goes through many adventures in an endeavor to make her acquaintance; one of his attempts to be near her is in the disguise of a picturesque donkey-driver. The story is full of fun and nonsense, and is played merrily to the end. By the author of "When Patty went to college."

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 27, 1907.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

CHEAP BOOKS IN ENGLAND.

THE movement by publishers in England to encourage the public to buy their fiction direct instead of reading it through the medium of the circulating libraries, by lowering the prices of certain of their books, is gaining ground. A short time ago Chatto & Windus entered the field with half-crown novels; then followed Sisley's and George Routledge & Sons, also with new fiction at half-a-crown instead of six shillings. Next, William Heinemann, one of the most far-sighted of the English publishers, started publishing fiction at four shillings; and now we notice that the Blackwoods are announcing Mrs. Cecil Thurston's newest book, "The Mystics," at 3s. 6d. While the books published at the lower prices, with few exceptions, are not by leading or even well-known authors, they are admitted to be good, so far as literary merit is concerned, and well made from a manufacturer's point of view—indeed, full value in every respect.

Along the same lines Thomas Nelson & Sons, already leaders in the field of inexpensive classics, notably in their New Century Library, which has received the tribute of wide imitation, are preparing a collection of the best copyright books of living English novelists at sevenpence each. In order to make this possible the Nelsons have erected in Edinburgh a new factory, filled with the latest labor-saving machinery. The factory is standardized, that is, it is organized for the production of books of a particular type, and for no other kind. Every operation in the manufacture is done by machinery, and to such a pitch has organization been brought that within a few hours after the white paper goes in at one end of the building, completed books of from four to six hundred pages, printed, sewed with thread, and bound in cloth, are delivered to the packers at the other end. Book production, in England at least, has never before been undertaken at such speed and on so gigantic a scale, and because of this scale the individual book, being one of hundreds of thousands produced at the same time, can be offered at a price which at first sight seems wholly inadequate. The first twelve volumes of the series, the issue of which will begin towards the end of May, will be "The Marriage of William Ashe," by Mrs. Humphry Ward; "The Intrusions of Peggy," by Anthony Hope; "No. 5 John Street," by Richard Whiteing; "The Battle of the Strong," by Sir Gilbert Parker; "Robert Elsmere," by Mrs. Humphry Ward; "Quisante," by Anthony Hope; "Fortunes of Christina Macnab," by Miss Macnaughtan; "Incomparable Bellairs," by Agnes and Egerton Castle; "The History of David Grieve," by Mrs. Humphry Ward; "John Charity," by H. A. Vachell; "The King's Mirror," by Anthony Hope, and "Sir John Constantine," by "Q." Among later volumes in the series will be "Marcella," by Mrs. Humphry Ward; "The God in the Car," by Anthony Hope; "If Youth But Knew," by Agnes and Egerton Castle; "An Adventurer of the North," by Sir Gilbert Parker, and "Clarissa Furiosa," by W. E. Norris. This collection, it will be noticed, is planned on the lines of our so-called "rebinds," but with this difference, that the volumes will be uniform in impression and binding and that they will be retailed at less than one-third of the price of the American "rebinds."

We have been accustomed to look to Germany for well-made and inexpensive reprints, at from six cents in paper to twenty-five cents in cloth; but England seems to be setting a pace downward not only as to reprints but as to new copyright fiction as well, and in a manner that fairly takes one's breath away. If the experiments of our English brethren should prove successful, and if they are able to prove that good cloth bound copyright books can be successfully marketed and profitably handled by the retail trade at from sevenpence to four shillings, then, whether the American booktrade now may believe it or not, the $1.50 novel will pass into desuetude just as certainly as the old guinea-and-a-half "three decker" made way for the cheaper one-volume successor and as that seems doomed to be crowded out by a still cheaper follower.

WILLIAM WILLIAMS—A PIONEER AMERICAN PUBLISHER.*

THE early American country printer's conscientious work, though often clumsily executed with rude primitive tools and material—the forerunner of civilization in the almost unbroken fastnesses of the new world—has been so seldom remembered, much less appreciated, by succeeding generations, that it is gratifying to note the filial tribute paid by one of his descendants to the life work of his grandfather in the field of American publishing—William Williams, whose enterprise made Utica, the beautiful city on the Mohawk in New York State, a literary centre for more than a quarter of a century.

It is a question whether any one to-day would be able, even if he cared to undertake the task, to trace the pedigrees and the work of the printers who by their efforts sought to enlighten their section of the world in such modest towns, for example, as Greenfield, Mass., Exeter, N. H., Leominster, Mass., Newburg, N. Y., Portsmouth, N. H., Wrentham, Mass., New London, Conn., Peekskill, N. Y., Bath, N. Y., Schenectady, N. Y., Bangor, Me., not to extend the list. We venture to say that the searcher after information in this field would be able to obtain but the merest skeleton, or perhaps only isolated facts. Even Isaiah Thomas, himself a country printer, in close touch with the printers and publishers of the eighteenth century, in compiling his history of printing, not only missed many, but was able to give but the scantiest and, at times, the most unreliable, information of the minor printers and booksellers of his time. At the risk, therefore, of exaggeration, we are inclined to compliment without stint the author of the present work, (John Camp Williams, of Morristown, N. J.,) upon his industry in rounding out to the fullest the history of one of the most active and interesting pioneers of the publishing business in the Empire State. Indeed, William Williams might safely challenge any of the printers in the larger cities of his State, even New York City and Albany, so far as industry and the quality of his printed works was concerned.

Briefly, William Williams, was born in Framingham, Mass., October 12, 1787, the son of Thomas Williams, one of a family of tanners, who, in 1790, after being closed out by the sheriff, sought their fortunes further West—in the Sanger settlement at New Hartford, in the confines of Judge White's prosperous Whitestown. True to their religious principles, their consciences would not allow them "to substitute the letter of the bankrupt law for their spiritual law, and in a few years they were making a trip back to Framingham, partly by foot, to pay off their old creditors in full with the first fruits of their new and prosperous venture."

In July, 1793, Jedediah Sanger, Samuel

Wells and Elisha Risley began publishing the Whitestown Gazette, which was printed by Richard Vandenburg. This had the honor of being the first weekly newspaper printed west of Albany. For want of patronage it was discontinued the next winter, and in the following year James Swords, of New York City, successor to Hugh Gaine, started the Western Centinel at Whitestown, Oliver C. Easton acting as the printer. This venture was also short-lived, and in May, 1796, the Whitestown Gazette was resurrected in New Hartford with Samuel Wells the proprietor and William McLean the printer. When McLean became proprietor of the paper he removed, in 1798, to the new-formed town of Utica, changing the name of his paper to Whitestown Gazette and Cato's Patrol. A year later Thomas Walker, from Rome, a former apprentice to Isaiah Thomas at Worcester, Mass., set up his Columbian Gazette in Utica. McLean had married Thomas Williams's eldest daughter the year before he removed to Utica, and so it was quite natural that young Williams, the subject of the volume under notice, should find a berth—in 1800—in his brother-in-law's printing office. McLean's paper continued until February, 1893, when he sold it to John H. Lathrop, who named it The Patriot. McLean removed to Vernon, N. Y., where he became associated in his father-in-law's tannery. Lathrop kept Williams at his apprenticeship until 1807, when his name appeared as a partner in the printing shop of Merrell & Seward, the printers of The Patriot, which for several years was run separately from the extensive bookstore of Asahel Seward. In 1812 Mr. Seward married a sister of Williams, and so for a second time he was at work in the establishment of a brother-in-law.

The output of the press of Merrell & Seward, then Asahel Seward, and, later, Seward & Williams, was varied and numerous, and exhibited much of the handiwork of the apprentice and journeyman William Williams, who from the age of thirteen to twenty assiduously mastered his trade, which showed itself in his later work as printer, bookbinder, woodcutter, bookseller and editor, even paper maker—a natural evolution of the self-made man who did whatever necessity required to keep his business advancing.

Just where Williams learned the art of wood engraving has not yet been discovered. His first-known work in this direction covered the cuts that appeared in "The New England Primer," printed by Seward & Williams in 1810.

In 1815 Seward & Williams began the publication of The Patrol, a weekly newspaper, which was not only printed but also edited in their office. The publication was so successful that at the end of one year's trial their old competitors on The Patrol proposed that the two papers be combined, which was agreed to in January, 1816. A year later Williams sold out his interest in the printing business and devoted himself exclusively to his bookstore and publishing business.

The editor of The Patriot and Patrol having abandoned the Clintonian party and retired from politics, the paper was discontinued, and Mr. Williams, a strong advocate of De Witt Clinton, took upon his shoulders the entire responsibility of editing and publishing the new Utica paper, The Sentinel, which aided greatly in electing Clinton for Governor. Mr. Williams, in 1825, disposed of The Sentinel to Dakin & Bacon, who joined it to their Gazette, changing the name to Utica Sentinel and Gazette.

* An Oneida County Printer: William Williams, printer, publisher, editor; with a bibliography of the Press at Utica, Oneida County, New York, from 1803-1838. By John Camp Williams. N. Y., Charles Scribner's Sons, 1906, [1907.] xxviii+214 p. il. 8°, bds., Van Gelder pap., $12.50; imp. Japan pap., $18.75.

Williams, in 1828, associated himself with Balch & Stiles, copper plate engravers, who engraved maps of New York and Michigan, also bank notes for Utica and other western banks. After Williams had become a partner, the firm opened an office and workshop in New York City, where, with others, they established the forerunner of the American Bank Note Company.

In 1832 the publishers of the Edinburgh Encyclopædia, of Philadelphia, for which Williams had been agent since 1814, failed, owing to its inability to collect subscriptions and the non-payment of notes which Williams had endorsed for business friends. The result was that his business was sold by the sheriff in 1834. His creditors continued the business under Williams's name, but it ran behind, and in 1840 was closed out altogether.

In 1841 Williams was thrown from the top of a stage coach, falling on his head, which, added to his financial troubles, so affected his mind that he was not fully recovered before his death, which occurred in Utica, June 10, 1850. His work had been done; but his influence for good still lives in the community with which he was so long identified. All honor to his kind.

From Williams's printing office a number of distinguished men were graduated, among them Henry Ivison, founder of the firm of Ivison, Phinny & Co., and Ivison, Blakeman & Co.; Mr. Williams's son, Dr. Samuel Wells Williams, the famous American sinologist, who went to China in 1832 as a printer in the service of the American Board of Foreign Missions, was interpreter to Commodore Perry on his expedition to Japan in 1853-'54, and who assisted in many other diplomatic services in China and Japan; Ellis H. Roberts, assistant United States Treasurer in New York City in 1889-1893, who furnishes the introduction to the present volume, and many others of more local fame. Thurlow Weed also formed one of Williams's family, which often included as many as eight apprentices.

Williams took part in the War of 1812 as Adjutant of the Regiment of Infantry of the County of Oneida, which was called into service at Sackett's Harbor. In time he rose to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. He was always prominent in church work, and took a leading part in the Anti-Masonic movement.

The author of this interesting book succeeded in tracing the titles of 252 of the books published from the presses at Utica, with many of which Williams was connected, from 1803 to 1838. They include, as may be imagined, many American school books and books and pamphlets by local authors, though works of general interest are not lacking.

The volume has been sumptuously printed by the Gilliss Press, on hand-made Van Gelder paper (165 copies) and on Japan paper (15 copies). It contains a mezzotint portrait of Williams by S. Arlent-Edwards; a colored photogravure portrait of William Morgan, the exposé of Masonic secrets which led to the famous anti-Masonic movement, and numerous woodcuts by Williams, facsimiles of title-pages, etc. Altogether it is a most dignified and valuable contribution to the history of printing in the United States.

MUST PAY THE PRICE AS BILLED OR RETURN ORIGINAL GOODS.

THE following decision in the suit brought by Edward J. Clode vs. The Syndicate Trading Company, to recover the price of books as billed or to have the original goods returned within a reasonable time is of interest to the trade:

Statement of Case.—On or about July 22, 1905, plaintiff sold and delivered to the defendant fifty (50) copies of a book called "The Great Mogul." These books were accompanied by a bill offered and received in evidence on the trial of the case in the Municipal Court of the City of New York for the seventh (7th) District, from which bill it appears that the price of the books was one dollar and fifty cents ($1.50) each, 2-5 & 5 off, making the purchase price forty-two dollars and seventy-five cents ($42.75). Shortly after defendant received the books it telephoned the plaintiff and said it could not use them at price billed. On the day that the books were delivered defendant made a claim for the difference between plaintiff's bill and the order, hence both the plaintiff and defendant knew at the outset that there was a difference between them as to the price. Defendant offered plaintiff forty dollars and fifty cents ($40.50) in full settlement, which plaintiff refused to accept and promptly returned defendant's check, accompanying it by a letter dated August 3, 1905, stating that the goods were billed at the regular rate and no allowance could be made. Sundry conversations between plaintiff and defendant followed during the months of August and September, 1905, and plaintiff demanded the return of the fifty (50) copies of the book on several occasions, which demand was not complied with by the defendant. The defendant then went into the open market and bought fifty (50) copies of the book and returned them to the plaintiff, but plaintiff refused to accept them.

Upon the trial in the Municipal Court, the judge held that the defendant, knowing at the outset about the difference as to price, could not wait three months after plaintiff's request was made to return the identical books or pay for them, and then go into the market and purchase other copies and force them on the plaintiff, and thereupon the court found that the defendant had no right to offer to return books other than those actually sold and delivered by the plaintiff, and judgment was accordingly entered in favor of the plaintiff, from which judgment the defendant appealed to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of New York State.

Appeal.—The brief filed on appeal by the counsel for the plaintiff recited the facts above stated, and showed that plaintiff had in no instance taken any other position, that he would not entertain any allowance on the price of the books, that they must either be paid for at the price billed or returned; that the defendant had disposed of the books delivered, and some months after the sale had gone into the open market and purchased other books and attempted to compel the plaintiff to accept them in lieu of the books which were originally sold, thus seeking to avoid the payment of the bill; that defendant could not accept the books and evade paying for them by returning, or attempting to return, other books.

The judgment rendered by the lower court in favor of the plaintiff was unanimously confirmed by the Appellate Court, with costs against the defendant.

GUILD OF BOOK-WORKERS.

THE Guild of Book-Workers, composed of amateur and other binders and printers, illuminators, engravers, etc., is giving its first annual exhibition at the old Tiffany Studios, Fourth Avenue and Twenty-fourth Street, New York City, to be continued until the 29th inst.

This exhibition is interesting for the reason that books are also exhibited in process of being bound. The original William Morris Kelmscott press, for example, is in operation by a private printer, and other work is shown.

Illustrations are given by amateur binders of the various processes through which a book passes before the final tooling is done. The guild has had great success in attracting members, inasmuch as almost all the States in the Union are represented. This exhibit forms the largest collection of American amateur work ever gathered together and gives the patrons of fine binding an opportunity of seeing what is now being done in this country. While admission tickets are not a sine qua non, they can be obtained of the secretary, Mrs. Ruth Starrett, 347 West Eighty-fifth Street, New York City.

"THE JUNGLE" ON THE STAGE.

THE following interesting coincidence was brought about by the simultaneous performance this week of a dramatization of "The Jungle," by Upton Sinclair, at Keith and Proctor's in New York City, and "The Undertow," by Eugene Walter, under the same management at the Harlem Theatre.

Both of these treat of the labor problems, and at a moment of intense excitement in "The Undertow" Mr. Sinclair's book is referred to as a remedy for the evils around which the plot of "The Undertow" is woven. It was only after the arrangements for producing both plays were completed that this fact was noticed.

While Mr. Sinclair's powerful exposé of the beef trust evils was one of the most successful books of the year, "The Undertow" makes its debut with its initial appearance this week at Proctor's Harlem Theatre.

TO BE PLACED ON THE "INDEX."

It is reported that the new syllabus in course of preparation by the Holy Office will contain a solemn condemnation of the works of the Abbé Houtin and of Fogazzaro, in addition to condemnations of the writings of the Abbé Loisy, the Rev. Dr. William Barry and the former Jesuit priest, Terrill.

It is reported in Rome that the Abbé Loisy, whose books were placed upon the "Index" in 1903, mainly owing to the efforts of Cardinal Richard, Archbishop of Paris, is suffering from an incurable disease, but before dying he hopes to finish his most important work, an "Exesis" or explanation of his apologetics.

A DEVOTIONAL "BEST SELLER."

"THE CHANGED CROSS," a volume of religious and devotional verse, has just been brought out under the imprint of G. P. Putnam's Sons. This book was originally compiled and published by the late A. D. F. Randolph, and already about 250,000 copies of it have been sold. It includes a little group of poems by Mr. Randolph himself. The bulk of the verses contained in it are anonymous. Whether regarded from the standpoint of style, thought, imagery, or sentiment, everything between its covers is within easy reach of the comprehension and sympathy of all simply pious souls.

Good English religious lyrics are scarce, and this is said without forgetting the Wesleys, the good Dr. Watts, Keble, Faber and Frances Ridley Havergal into the bargain. That such rarities—good devotional lyrics—abound in "The Changed Cross" might be inferred from the fact that up to the present speaking a quarter of a million of people have procured, each for himself (or herself), a copy. What more need be said?

OBITUARY NOTES.

HENRY DRAPER HARROWER died on April 23, at his home, 210 W. Fourth Street, New York City. Mr. Harrower was born in Massachusetts in 1847, and was connected with the Ivison, Blakeman & Co. and its successors, and more recently with the Macmillan Company.

SAMUEL BAYARD DOD, author of "Stubble or Wheat" and "Highland Chronicle," died on April 19, at his home in South Orange, N. J. Mr. Dod was born in Princeton, N. J., in 1839, and, until he became executor of the vast Stevens estate in Hoboken, N. J., was a Presbyterian clergyman.

JOHN EDMOND ROUSE, president of the Globe Publishing Company, 44 East Twenty-third Street, New York, and of the American Newspaper Association, died on April 19 at his home, 418 William Street, East Orange, N. J. He was forty-eight years old. Before coming to New York he was identified with the Werner Publishing Company, of Chicago.

FERDINAND GREENEBAUM, president and manager of the Nassau News Company, 200 William Street, New York, died on April 18, at Lakewood, N. J. Mr. Greenebaum was born at Eckenhausen in Westphalia, Germany, in 1852, and was brought to this country by his parents when still a child. After passing through the public schools he became a compositor and for a time was employed in the New Yorker Staats-Zeitung office. While there he became interested in the distribution and transportation of newspapers, which, in 1892, led him to organize the Nassau News Company. He established the business at 13 Spruce Street, and made a specialty of handling the German newspapers. Some years ago his business became an auxiliary of the American News Company and was removed to William Street. Mr. Greenebaum, though a hard worker and stern disciplinarian, was of a sunny nature and disposition, who was welcome everywhere and esteemed by all who knew him.

ANDRÉ THEURIET, the French novelist, poet and dramatist, died on April 23, in Paris. Theuriet was born in Marly-le-Roi, October 8, 1833. He studied law with an idea of making that his profession, and was admitted to the bar in 1857. In 1867 he entered the Ministry of Finance, but continued to devote a great deal of time to literature, for which he had already shown unmistakable talent. His first published poem, "In Memoriam," appeared in the Revue des Deux Mondes. His poem, "Chemin des Bois," received the special commendation of the French Academy in 1867. In 1870 he issued a volume of short stories entitled "Nouvelles Intimes," and four years later his first novel, "Mademoiselle Guignon," brought him into conspicuous notice as a writer of fiction. Theuriet received the decoration of the Legion of Honor in 1879, and in 1896 was elected a member of the French Academy, defeating Emile Zola, who was then a candidate for the second time. Theuriet also achieved success as a playwright. One of his plays, "Jean-Marie," a one-act drama in verse, was acted at the Odéon, in 1871, by Porel and Sarah Bernhardt, and was adopted as a part of the repertory of the Théâtre Français; another play, "La Maison des Deux Barbeaux," drew large audiences to the Odéon in 1885. Theuriet's poems are now collected in four volumes—"Chemin des Bois," "Le Bleu et le Noir," "Le Livre de la Payse" and "Jardin d'Automne." Among his best known novels are "Le Mariage de Gérard," "Sous Bois," "Sauvageonne," "Amour d'Automne," "L'Oncle Scipion," "Tante Aurélie," "Claudette" and "Le Manuscrit du Chanoine."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

"THE sure-enough saint is a business man who sticks to the one-price system and tells the truth."—Elbert Hubbard.

JOHN W. LUCE & Co. will bring out an American edition of Ernest Oldmeadow's "Susan," which has been highly commended in England.

THE book rights to "The Romance of Steel," by Herbert N. Casson, which has been running in Munsey's Magazine, have been acquired by A. S. Barnes & Co.

W. B. CONKEY COMPANY, Hammond, Ind., are changing the character of their line of publications, and are therefore closing out the plates of a number of non-copyright books at a low price.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just ready a volume entitled "Making a Newspaper," by John L. Given. Their publication of "Alice for Short" is delayed because the proofs are being read by the author in Florence.

THOSE who may care to study Stirner's "Der Einzige und sein Eigenthum" in the original may be interested to know that it forms Nos. 3057-60 of Reclam's Universal Bibliothek, which may be had at 80 pfennigs.

THE BROADWAY PUBLISHING COMPANY, 835 Broadway, New York City, have just ready "William McKinley: a Biographical Study," by A. Elwood Corning. The book contains fifteen illustrations and an "introductory address" by President Roosevelt as a preface.

THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY has arranged an exhibition of the book-plates and other engravings by the late Edwin Davis French, which will be on view for several months at the Lenox Library Building, Fifth Avenue and Seventieth Street, New York City. The exhibition of "American Work" will remain on view until May 31.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS COMPANY are bringing out a cheaper and more compact edition of their "Lincoln-Douglas Debates," which has been out of print for some time. They also announce that the price of the "Jesuit Relations" has been advanced to $5 net per volume. Only a few sets of this monumental work remain in their hands.

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co. announce Arthur Davison Ficke's volume of poetry, entitled "The Happy Princess," which, besides the title-poem, will contain "Poems and Pilgrim Verses." In "Pilgrim Verses" the author has expressed his notion of Oriental thought and story Japanese, Indian, Thibetan, Persian. This is said to contain "some forty pages that no reader will soon forget."

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just brought out Dr. A. T. Schofield's new book, "The Home Life in Order," treating not only of the household and its hygiene, but of the human body as to its organization, functions and needs in the matter of care. The book is simply written for the layman, as were the author's previous works, "Nerves in Order" and "The Force of Mind."

THE members of the Aberdeen Booksellers' and Newsagents Association entertained Alexander Milne, of A. & R. Milne, the well-known Scottish booksellers, at a complimentary dinner on March 13, on the occasion of his retirement from active business. Mr. Milne began in 1840 as a collector for Mr. Davidson, of Aberdeen—that is, it was his duty to go round the shops to find out what was wanted.

THE Chicago Inter-Ocean of April 14 contains a discussion of the similarity between Dr. Charles Gilbert Davis's "The Philosophy of Life" and the Rev. R. J. Campbell's "The New Theology," which were published a year apart, and which are said to be similar not only in ideas, but in sequence of thought. "The Philosophy of Life" appeared first. The Inter-Ocean arranges the passages said to be similar in parallel columns.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish on the 30th inst. "The Lady of the Blue Motor," a new automobile story by G. Sidney Paternoster, author of "The Motor Pirate," etc., in which he tells what a woman may do at the steering wheel when she is not troubled with feminine weakness or nerves. They announce a book of interest in Miss Mary C. Crawford's "Old New England Inns," illustrated with reproductions of rare pictures and of photographs.

PAUL ELDER & Co. have secured an American edition of Miss Agnes Tobin's translation of Petrarch's "On the Death of Madonna Laura." This is the third of a series of translations from Petrarch by Miss Tobin, those preceding it being "Love's Crucifix," (nine sonnets and a canzone from Petrarch,) and "The Flying Lesson," (ten sonnets, two canzoni, a ballata and a double sestina from Petrarch,) both of which, we understand, are out of print.

JOHN LANE COMPANY are about to publish Oscar Browning's "The Fall of Napoleon," a view of Napoleon's character and conduct during the last years of his power which differs from that generally held by English historians. The author has made use of the vast amount of new material recently brought to light, and has studied the campaign of 1813 on the ground where it was carried through. Mr. Browning wrote "The Boyhood and Youth of Napoleon," recently published by The John Lane Company.

B. W. HUEBSCH, New York City, will be represented by Desmond Fitzgerald on his Western trip this spring. Mr. Fitzgerald goes to the Pacific Coast via the Southern route and returns via the Northern route. Mr. Huebsch's new publications include: "Gaining Health in the West," by George B. Price; "Religion and Historic Faiths," by Otto Pfeleiderer, D.D.; and "Seventy Years Young," by Emily Bishop. Mr. Fitzgerald will also take orders for "Are You a Bromide?" Gelett Burgess's book, which has made quite a "hit."

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD Co. have just brought out Miss Nina Rhoades's "Priscilla and the Doll Shop," containing three stories each, one almost as long as any one of its author's former books, and two dealing with those cases of naughtiness in which children generally good occasionally outdo the feats of normal little sinners. They will publish on May 1 "Heart Melodies," a collection of gems of thought in poetry and prose, by Mary Allette Ayer; also, "Fifty Flower Friends with Familiar Faces," by Edith Dunham. Both of these books were announced for publication in March, but were unavoidably delayed.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on May 2 "The Invader," by Margaret L. Woods, author of "Wild Justice," the new book being the story of a woman of two distinct personalities—one good, simple, meek, the other everything opposite to goodness, simplicity and meekness: Lawrence Mott's "To the Credit of the Sea," a book of the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, describing the men who sail them as vividly as "Jules of the Great Heart" did for Canadian trappers; also "Strange Stories of Colonial Days," in the Strange Stories from American History series which has made American history so real to many young Americans.

EDWARD TURNBULL, the manager of the Catalogue Department of the Anderson Auction Company since its inauguration some years ago, has sent in his resignation, which took effect on April 13. Mr. Turnbull, who bears the reputation of a most observant and accurate bibliographer, has compiled the more important catalogues issued by this house, among which may be mentioned those describing the library of Wilberforce Eames, of the Lenox Library, (of which six parts have been written;) the library of Bishop John F. Hurst; the Shakespearean Library of the Hon. Frederick S. Tallmadge, president of the Sons of the Revolution, and many others.

THE JOHN C. WINSTON Co. announce a book by Dr. M. Solis-Cohen, entitled "Woman in Girlhood, Wifehood and Motherhood," which has received high praise from the medical profession. Among their forthcoming books is a drama in five acts by Arthur D. Rees, entitled "The Double Love," a tragedy of American life, the scene of which is a suburb of New York in the year 1900. Mr. Rees, who will shortly follow this work with another drama, entitled "Columbus," is one of the younger lecturers for the University Extension Society of Philadelphia, the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, the New York Board of Education, etc.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in preparation a book entitled "Christian Science, Its Relation to Philosophy, Science and Religion," written by the Rev. Lyman P. Powell, of Northampton, Mass., with the idea of helping readers digest the many facts brought out about Christian Science, and of adding to the knowledge of its philosophy and the history of its development. The book is based on a pamphlet privately printed by Mr. Powell, which came to be in demand though it was not regularly put upon the market. They announce for early publication Albert Von Ruville's "William Pitt: Earl of Chatham," an illustrated work in three volumes by a privatdozent at the University of Halle.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING Co. will publish on May 15 "Baby Dear," a book in which doting parents and friends may chronicle the happenings of baby's first year. Adah Louise Sutton, who has compiled the book, culled particularly appropriate passages of and about the baby from our best poets. These appear on one page and on the opposite are blanks to fill with the interesting intimate data. Drawings done from life fill the book from cover to cover, and each page has the daintiest decorations. The illustrations, by Miss Katharine Hayward Greenland, follow the baby's progress from its first glimpse of day until its first birthday. The paper used will be especially made and adapted to the use of pen and ink in making the entries.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just published Charles F. Aked's first sermon, delivered April 21 at the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, containing a summary of the new pastor's religious ideas. They purpose to issue in the near future a volume of Dr. Aked's sermons, "The Courage of the Coward." They announce for early publication "A Typical Mission in China," an honest diary by an English missionary, W. E. Soot-hill, narrative and descriptive, and for publication on May 15 "The Industrial Conflict," by Samuel G. Smith, of the department of sociology in the University of Minnesota, a statement of the divergent views of labor and capital as shown in numerous (mostly unsigned) letters the author has received from representatives of both sides of the conflict, laborers and employers, with his own deductions from them.

"A CAMBRIDGE HISTORY OF ENGLISH LITERATURE," is announced which is to follow the plan of the "Cambridge Modern History." The work will be published in fourteen volumes of about four hundred and fifty pages each, and will cover the whole of English literature from Beowulf to the end of the Victorian age. As in the "Cambridge Modern History" each chapter will be the work of a writer specially familiar with the subject, and the "History" will give a connected account of the successive movements, both main and subsidiary, treating minor writers adequately and not allowing them to be overshadowed by a few great personalities. V. I. will cover the period from the origin to Chaucer, v. II. from Chaucer to the Renaissance, v. III. Elizabethan poetry and prose, v. IV. and v. Elizabethan and Jacobean drama, v. VI. Jacobean poetry and prose, v. VII. the Caroline age, v. VIII. the age of Dryden, v. IX. the age of Swift and Pope, v. X. the rise of the novel, v. XI. the earlier Georgian age, v. XII. the Romantic revival, and v. XIII. and XIV. the Victorian age.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY is publishing this week "A Victor of Salamis," a story of ancient Greece by William Stearns Davis, author of "A Friend of Cæsar" and "God Wills It," who seems to be the legitimate successor of Lew Wallace and Sienkiewicz; "Shakespeare," by Professor Walter Raleigh, of Oxford University, in the English Men of Letters series; "Her Own Way," a play, by Clyde Fitch; "Engines of Social Progress," by W. L. George, whose book is neither a political tract nor a systematic sociological treatise, but rather a searching though informal discussion of certain phases of the modern movement looking to the improvement of social conditions; "The Wisdom of Sir Walter," compiled by Owen Redfern, with an introduction by the Rev. John Watson, D.D., (Ian Mac-laren,) which contains a number of quotations from the Waverley novels and Lockhart's "Life of Scott;" also, a low-priced, paper-covered edition of "Jesus in Modern Criticism," by Dr. Paul W. Schmiedel, one of the leaders of the advanced German school of theology, carefully translated by Maurice A. Canney.

THE AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION, as already noted, holds its annual meeting in New York, May 14-15, which is followed by a banquet on the evening of the latter date, at the Aldine Association, 111 Fifth Avenue. Those who have attended the dinner in former years will be glad to note the brilliant list of speakers who are "booked" for the occasion. The following writers of distinction will be heard in pleasant discourse after coffee is served: Bishop Ethelbert Talbot, author of "My People of the Plains;" Gelett Burgess, author of "Are You a Bromide?," "The White Cat," etc.; R. F. Outcault, the creator of "Buster Brown;" F. R. Chapman, author of "Bird Life," etc.; W. F. Hornaday, author of "Camp Fires in the Canadian Rockies;" Arthur Stringer, author of "The Wire Tappers;" Professor Wickes, of Syracuse, N. Y., and Louis Joseph Vance, author of "The Brass Bowl." Mark Twain has also promised to be present if he can get back to town in time. The tickets at the democratic price of $2.50 can be had of Charles A. Burkhardt, at Dutton's; Charles E. Butler, at Brentano's, or from any other member of the banquet committee.

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, of Philadelphia, have just published "The Promotion," by the Rev. John M. Dean, one of the pastors of the Tabernacle Baptist Church in Seattle, Wash., a story which deals graphically with missionary work in the Philippines from personal experience during the Spanish-American war, and which has run serially both in the Examiner of New York and the Advance of Chicago. They will publish shortly Dr. Everett T. Tomlinson's "The Fruit of the Desert," a mission story of the Southwest, now running in the Boston Christian Endeavor World, and later another volume dealing with the great Northwest. These volumes will complete the series which began with "The Self-Effacement of Malachi Joseph," just published, a story of the difficulties encountered by the missionary pastor in the remote hamlets of our country. The society will also bring out in the near future "A Corner of India," by Mrs. M. M. Clark, who has been a missionary among the Nagas of Burma for many years, and who relates in an interesting manner her unusual experiences in the work; and Professor C. R. Brown's "The Book of the Prophet Jeremiah," in the American Commentary on the Old Testament, a study by the Professor of Hebrew at the Newton Theological Institution, based upon his recently issued translation of the book of Jeremiah.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have just ready Marjorie Bowen's novel of the father of Nancy Stair, entitled "The Master of Stair," a romance woven about the massacre of Glencoe, in which love, so small a factor in the author's "Viper of Milan," is a leading motive; "His Courtship," by Helen R. Martin, the author of "Tillie, a Mennonite Maid," a story of Eunice, an unworldly pastoral little maid, who is discovered on a Pennsylvania farm by young Professor Kinross; "The Great American Pie Company," by Ellis Parker Butler, the author of "Pigs is Pigs," a humorous story of Eph. Deacon's and Phineas Doolittle's plan for cornering pie by gaining control of the flour output, the cooperage industry, the lard market, the orchards and the railroads; Henry Milner Rideout's adventure story of the Far East, "The Siamese Cat," who with the "devil-fish girl" formed the two main factors in the involving of Owen Scarlett in an uncanny mystery of Siam; "The Trimmed Lamp," by O. Henry, a collection of stories of "the four million," with vivid pictures of New York's under half; Keble Howard's humorous novel of suburban life, "The Smiths," including two generations of this interesting family; "The Story of Life Insurance," Burton T. Hendrick's popular articles on the subject which appeared in McClure's, now put in book form; "Through Portugal," by Martin Hume, the chronicle of an extended trip through that remote country; also, Cale Young Rice's new poetic drama, "A Night in Avignon," a brief play in blank verse by the author of "Yolanda of Cyprus" and "David," dealing with a night in the life of that famous lover, Petrarch. They announce that owing to the delay attendant upon illustrating C. N. and A. M. Williamson's "The Princess Virginia," in three colors, the book will not be ready until the eighth or tenth of May.

India Paper Edition, Red Letter Edition, Regular Editions, Sunday-School Scholars' Bibles

Nearly five years ago we were invited to become associated with those Bible publishers who are governed by an agreement to maintain high prices. We refused to do so. The wisdom of our refusal, and its importance to booksellers, becomes apparent when at this time we are able to say that our Bible business is entirely satisfactory, and Bibles of equal quality to ours cannot be purchased elsewhere at prices less than from 25 to 50 per cent. more than we ask for them. JUST THINK THIS OVER.

Any of our books can be purchased of us direct or of your jobber if more convenient to you. Don't pay Dictionary Trust or Bible Combination prices for Dictionaries or Bibles. Buy our books and make more money.

OUT TO-DAYPEARY'S
"Nearest the Pole"

The intimate record of a man who, by every right of courage and effectiveness, stands foremost in the race for the North Pole. It is a narrative of absorbing interest, showing the unique methods adapted by this great American explorer, who put the Stars and Stripes in the lead for the first time since Greely's trip twenty years ago.

Elaborately illustrated. Net, $4.80

(Postage 34 cents.)

This important publication is uniform with Landon's "Opening of Tibet," Fiala's "Fighting the Polar Ice," etc., in our Geographical Library.

Water WondersBy JEAN M. THOMPSON

Uniform with "Every Child Should Know" Books.

Opens up a new and fascinating field for boys and girls, explaining in a simple and interesting way the wonders of the Ice, Rain, Frost and Snow Crystals. In schools as well as for home reading it has unique value. 64 pages of incredibly fine microphotographs. Net, $1.10. (Postage 10 cents.)

Tin Enamelled PotteryBy Prof. EDWIN ATLEE BARBER

First volume in "Primers of Art."

A valuable book to collectors and art students. It is the first of a series of Primers which will treat the various branches of pottery, covering the entire field. Fully illustrated. Net, 90 cents. (Postage 9 cents.)

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO.

Published April 25th these Notable Books

O. HENRY'S new stories of "The Four Million"The Trimmed Lamp

C A new book by this inimitable story teller has come to be regarded as a literary event. These stories of New York, dealing with life among all classes in the great city, are rich in human understanding, humorous and real.

With frontispiece. $1.00KEBLE HOWARD'S delightfully humorous novel of suburban lifeThe Smiths

C The simple annals of a suburban family, taking the reader through two generations. They charm in their unaffectedness and diffuse a warm and mellow glow of sympathy, so true are they to the experience of the average suburbanite. Mr. Howard is a humorist of the rarest quality.

Cloth. $1.50BURTON J. HENDRICK'S famous articles in book formThe Story of Life Insurance

C In response to a great demand, Mr. Hendrick's articles published in McClure's are now issued in book form. This is the most successful effort ever made to render life insurance plain to the average reader.

Illustrated. Net, $1.20MARTIN HUME'S enjoyable book of travelThrough Portugal

C In which are chronicled the experiences and observations of an extended trip through that remote country, little visited by the tourist, Portugal. Major Hume is an admirable guide, and every step in this pilgrimage is fraught with pleasure and instruction.

Fully illustrated. Net, $2.00CALE YOUNG RICE'S new poetic dramaA Night in Avignon

C A brief play in blank verse, by the author of "Yolanda of Cyprus," "David," etc., dealing with a night in the life of the famous Italian lover-poet, Petrarch.

Cloth. Net, 50 cents.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO.

Published April 25th these Notable Books

MARJORIE BOWEN'S novel dealing with the father of Nancy Stair

The Master of Stair

C Even that powerful and fascinating story "The Viper of Milan," by the same author, must yield place to this tremendous romantic drama. Sir John Dalrymple, Master of Stair and father of one of the most attractive heroines in recent fiction, is the hero of this splendid story of passionate love and passionate hatred. The plot is woven about the celebrated Massacre of Glencoe, concerning which Miss Bowen has unearthed much material of great historical importance.

Cloth. $1.50

HELEN R. MARTIN'S delicious love-story

His Courtship

C The quaintest, most charming and appealing love-story in this season's fiction, by the author of "Tillie, a Mennonite Maid." Eunice, unworldly little pastoral maid, sweet, delicate, refined, is "discovered" on a Pennsylvania Dutch farm by young Professor Kinross, who sets to work to solve the mystery that surrounds her.

Illustrations by Alice Barber Stephens. $1.50

ELLIS PARKER BUTLER'S second big humorous "hit"

The Great American Pie Company

C Millions of Americans who chortled over "Pigs Is Pigs" are going to accord its deserving little successor the same rousing reception. Eph. Deacon's and Phineas Doolittle's plan for cornering the supply of the luscious American product by gaining control of the flour output, the cooperage industry, the lard market, the orchards and the railroads, is as excruciatingly funny as Mike Flannery's famous predicament. Illustrated by Frederic Dorr Steele. 50c.

HENRY MILNER RIDEOUT'S rattling adventure story

The Siamese Cat

C A great green-eyed cat and the "devil-fish girl" were the two main factors, and they effectually enmeshed Owen Scarlett in an uncanny mystery and an adventurous love affair in darkest Siam. There is about this tale all the lure of the cryptic Orient, and the abiding charm that goes with a quick succession of climax and rattling incident.

Illustrated by Will Grefé. $1.25

NOTE: C. N. and A. M. Williamson's THE PRINCESS VIRGINIA will have illustrations in three colors. The change necessitates a postponement of publication date to May 6th or May 8th.
